WILDERNESS

Learning That Matters

At Wilderness, our learning framework is designed to deliver 'life worthy learning' for our girls. By this, we mean learning that is likely to matter in the lives girls are likely to lead (Perkins, 2014, p. 8).

Whilst the exact nature of the girls' future lives is hard to pin-down, our learning framework seeks to equip them with the knowledge, skills, capabilities and dispositions they will need to be creative, connected and engaged in a rapidly changing and complex world.

The framework unpacks our shared vision of the learning entitlement for each girl and compels us to think ahead and foster innovative programs that focus on student growth. It articulates a clear vision and set of goals for our curriculum and enumerates what we know constitutes high quality teaching and high-quality learning outcomes.
